

THE WINDMILL

SUFFOLK

Bury St Edmunds, IP30 0HX

Steve and Natalie Roberts have spent two years renovating The Windmill, near Lavenham in Suffolk. Originally built in 1891, it was only operational until 1900. For many years, it was used as a store before falling into disrepair. The couple have managed sympathetically to combine the restoration of the historic features with modern luxury, and The Windmill now stands proudly once again in the Suffolk skyline. Set across five floors connected by a sweeping staircase, the luxurious adults-only holiday accommodation has two king size bedrooms and sleeps four people. Even the tiniest of details has been attended to, with bespoke handmade super king size beds, a magnificent marble and mosaic shell bathroom including a freestanding bath tub and a rain shower, (both of which are big enough for two!). The astounding top floor living space has panoramic vistas across the county and a wonderful external balcony from which to appreciate them. Featuring two irresistibly comfy velvet sofas, an abundance of plump cushions, and exquisite hand-crafted curved beams, the POD certainly gives 'highpoint' a new meaning! There's even a wine fridge, so your favourite tippie is always to hand and chilled to perfection. ► thewindmillsuffolk.com

ENJOY YOUR STAY

*Explore Britain's glorious history, breathtaking landscapes and magnificent cities,
staying in luxurious private accommodation.*

We also love...

Lighthouse Keeper's Cottage, Sunderland

Soak up sweeping views of Sunderland's limestone cliffs from this unique seaside setting. The white-washed cottage is next door to Souter Lighthouse. The lighthouse was built in 1871 to ward ships from the dangerous rocks at Whitburn Steel. ► nationaltrust.org.uk/holidays

Stoer Lighthouse, Sutherland, North West Scotland

Stoer Lighthouse is a fully furnished Self Catering Lighthouse located on Stoer Head, north of Lochinver. The Lighthouse itself dates from the 1870s and has been recently refurbished to a high standard. ► stoerlighthouse.co.uk

